

AQHA ALLIANCE PARTNER PROGRAM

The American Quarter Horse Association Alliance Program began in 1999 as a way to bring the American Quarter Horse lifestyle to millions of horse riders, owners and enthusiasts through relationships with associations that feature horse activities and competitions.

Since a large proportion of the horses you see here today are American Quarter Horses, ABRA and AQHA formed an Alliance Partnership to help each other to promote both the versatility of the American Quarter Horse and the continued integrity of buckskin, dun, red dun and grulla horses.

The partnership means that American Quarter Horses are recognized as the foundation breed that provides the bloodlines for the many of the horses used in today's competition, while ABRA records and preserves the pedigrees for buckskin, dun, red dun and grulla horses.

AQHA tips its hat to ABRA and its members for the great job it does in promoting equestrian activities and the American Quarter Horse.
